

MOURNING.

All Louisville Grieved at the Passing of Col. John H.
Whallen.

Poor and Needy Have Lost Their True Friend and Champion.

Fortified by Last Rites of the Church Before His End.

MANY TRIBUTES TO MEMORY

Although expected hourly, nevertheless the death of Col. John H. Whallen on Wednesday evening came as a blow to the majority of Louisville citizens, rich and poor, all alike being interested in the gallant but hopeless fight he was making for his life, and the Louisville public, regardless of creed or color, realized in his death that the city suffered a distinct loss.

Col. Whallen died at 7:20 o'clock Wednesday night at his home in Spring Bank Park on the western outskirts of Louisville. His death, which ended an illness of several years, was due to arterio sclerosis, complicated by Bright's disease and acute uremia. Although he had long been an intermittent sufferer from these maladies, Col. Whallen's illness did not attain a critical stage until last summer. The night of the late primary, August 2, he sat in his office in the Buckingham Theater, receiving the returns. The following day he left for Europe in the hope that a vacation and change of climate would restore his waning health. During an absence of about two months Col. Whallen toured Ireland, Scotland and England. He sent optimistic messages to his friends from various points, but upon his return it was seen that the trip had been of little if any benefit. Since his return his health had been declining, gradually but inexorably.

Four weeks ago, weakened by a severe cold, he was forced to his bed. The attending physicians, Dr. John H. Buschmeyer and Dr. Clinton Kelly, were at his side constantly, using all the resources of their skill. Despite their efforts, his condition grew more grave from day to day. Last Friday a week ago, while he was still conscious, the last rites were administered by the Rev. Father C. Brey, pastor of the Holy Cross church, at Thirty-second and Broadway. Twice later he received holy communion. Last Tuesday morning Col. Whallen lapsed into a state of unconsciousness from which he did not again emerge. Realizing that the end was drawing near his relatives and intimate personal friends gathered about his bedside. With him when the end came were Col. James P. Whallen, his brother and business associate; two daughters, Mrs. Ella Herfurth and Mrs. Nora Moore, of Louisville, Ky.; Mayor Buschmeyer, Dr. Kelly and several close friends.

Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock the Rev. Father Brey and the Rev. Father Raffo visited the Whallen home again. Col. Whallen grew weaker toward the close of the day until at 7:05 o'clock he passed peacefully. Fifteen minutes later Col. Whallen was dead. No scene in his life was more affecting than that which concluded it. The bed in which the sick man lay was against the south wall of the room. Col. James Whallen was at the right side, holding his brother's hand. Next stood Col. Whallen's grandchildren, Dorothy and Goldie Herfurth, and next to them his two daughters, Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Herfurth. Mrs. James P. Whallen was at the foot of the couch. On the left were Thomas Whallen, a half-brother; Frank McGrath and Edward T. Tierney, the Chairman of the Board of Public Safety. In the hall outside were John Shea, Frank Dugan, George W. Berry, Edward O'Connor and R. E. Fleming. Col. Whallen came to the city after a brief service here and he went to Newport, Ky., where he joined the police force. He soon tired of this occupation and went to Tennessee, where he obtained employment with a construction gang on the Cincinnati Southern railway. This field of activity soon was exhausted in interest for the Colonel and he came to Louisville in his early twenties and took up work in a rock quarry. Here he was joined by his brother Jim, and the life history of these two has run in an inseparable line from that day to the present time. With the two brothers existence was mutual. All their extensive affairs of whatever import and importance have been carried on jointly, and so greatly were their interests unified that friends jocularly remarked, "Whenever the Whallens buy a pair of shoes, one belongs to Jim and the other to John." The two brothers have seen poverty and affluence and their fortunes have swung with the pendulum, they shared their scores of thousands together with the same remarkable degree of brotherly affection that marked the fortitude with which they divided their hardships in earlier days.

In many respects Col. Whallen resembled "Big Tim" Sullivan, the famous political boss of the New York Bowery. The one difference was that Sullivan delighted in political preferment in the way of office holding himself, while Col. Whallen shrank even from having his name mentioned in connection with any office. In organization of forces for political campaigns there was a striking resemblance in the methods of the two political bosses. The secret of Col. Whallen's success in campaigns, like Sullivan's, was to get what he denominated the common people in line. To these he was always charitable both politically and personally. "Give me the rag tag and bobtail if you choose to put it that way," Col. Whallen used to say, "and the enemy can have the other end, and if we do not win we will find out the reason why." Col. Whallen, like Sullivan, always held his forces together by keeping his word with them. When he made a promise, he always kept it. He dealt differently with the common people than he did with the leaders or candidates for office. This carried weight.

The last big political coup achieved by Col. Whallen personally was undoubtedly the election of W. O. Head as Mayor of Louisville in 1909. True, Col. Whallen was deeply interested in the race this year between the Progressive party, led by Wood E. Axton, and the Democratic party, led by Dr. John H. Buschmeyer, Mayorality candidates, but his activity in behalf of the latter was too insignificant to be compared to his work during the Head-Grinstead campaign. It will be recalled that Col. Whallen, just after the Democratic primary last August, made a trip to Europe in poor health, which explains why he did not undertake to carry the burden of the Democratic movement. But the 1909 campaign, which resulted in the election of Mr. Head, gave the city of Louisville a final setting glimpse of the old warrior at his best, with all the vim and energy of a real fighter and the fire of battle flashing in his eye when the struggle was at its height.

The following tributes were paid by Rev. Father Brey, Dr. E. L. Powell and Mayor Buschmeyer: Rev. Celestine Brey, pastor of Holy Cross church, Thirty-second street and Broadway, where Col. Whallen was a communicant: "He was certainly a very charitable man, and was an immeasurable help in building Holy Cross church. Col. Whallen was an active worker in the St. Vincent de Paul society, the Catholic charity organization, and as long as he was able to be out attended meetings of the society every Sunday. He will be missed very much by the poor, whom he helped in countless ways, especially in cold weather. I recall, for instance, his public distribution of food and clothing two or three winters ago. We often discussed the problems of aiding the humble in the way of securing better and more comfortable living conditions. Col. Whallen seemed to feel a personal burden because the poor could not suffer less from the miseries of poverty, could not have less rudeness, and could not have more leisure to seek the pleasures of life—education and beautiful things. Yes, he talked often about improving the conditions of the poor, but he never discussed politics with me."

Dr. E. L. Powell, pastor of the First Christian church, when apprised of the death of Col. Whallen, said: "I have never been associated with Col. Whallen save in one matter, that of the campaign a year or two ago for the establishment of the Salvation Army citadel in this city, and I must say that he showed a great deal of zeal and energy in the campaign and gave evidence that he was thoroughly acquainted with such work. I was never associated with him in a political way. I have though frequently expressed commendation for his work and interest in establishing what is known as a winter commissary for the benefit of the poor of the city."

Mayor Buschmeyer: "My grief tonight over Col. Whallen's death is personal. The Colonel and I have been close personal friends for over twenty-two years. In my acquaintance with him I have found him to be the most charitable man I ever met. He was absolutely true and loyal to all his friends at all times and in all conditions. He was one of the greatest men ever mothered by Louisville."

The funeral services over the remains of Col. Whallen will be held this morning at 9:30 o'clock at Holy Cross church, of which he was a most devout member. Father Celestine Brey, the pastor, will be the celebrant of the solemn high mass of requiem, assisted by many priests who were friends of Col. Whallen. Rev. Father B. A. Cunningham, of St. Vincent, former pastor of Holy Cross, will be the deacon; Father Boland, of Somerset, the subdeacon, and Father Doherty, of Paynesville, master of ceremonies. The sermon will be preached by Rev. Charles P. Raffo, who knew Col. Whallen intimately for years. The pall-bearers who will carry the remains to their resting place in St. Louis cemetery are Mayor Buschmeyer, James B. Brown, Frank McGrath, Frank Dugan, Edward Tierney, Charles J. Cronan, W. O. Head and John H. Shea.

ADVENT.

Period of Anticipation For the Great Feast of the Nativity.

Church Exhorts Us to Look Forward to Festival of Christmas.

The World Now Needs Christ
As It Never Did
Before.

PRAYER ALL MEN SHOULD OFFER

The season of advent, which began last Sunday, is a period of anticipation for the great feast of the Nativity of our Lord. During the twenty-five days which this year compose the first considerable portion of the ecclesiastical calendar, the church exhorts her children to look forward to the festival of Christmas, and in prayer and penance make themselves a people prepared for its proper keeping.

With beautiful appropriateness the church has arranged the liturgy of the season in such a way as to emphasize the yearning of the human race before the coming of our Lord, for the fulfillment of its hopes. She goes back in spirit over the thousands of years which intervened between the entrance of sin into the world and the advent of Him who was to redeem humanity. In the words of the old dispensation she says: "Send down the dew, ye heavens, from above, and let the clouds rain the Just One; let the earth be opened and bud forth the Redeemer."

It is the language of the prophets, which she uses, terms of ardent longing and fervid expression, in order to impress most deeply on the minds of the faithful the need of the world for a Saviour, and the greatness of God's condescension when in the fullness of time He "sent his Son made of a woman, made under the law; that He might redeem them, who were under the law, that we might receive the adoption of sons."

Advent time is now the church's preparation for the coming of the Redeemer with his grace and truth into countless souls. In the twentieth century, as well as in the first, He must be allowed and invited to come into human life and human affairs, if He is to direct our feet in way of peace. "He came into his own, and his own received Him not," was his experience with the people peculiarly his own, and it has been repeated from age to age. The world today needs Christ as badly as it has ever needed Him in the past. Into every department of activity, into education, government, business, social relations, religion, even, there has entered so much of the material and so many sordid elements, that the Lord and his saving graces have been either sedulously excluded or thoughtlessly ignored. The mystery of the approaching season is bound up in the word "coming," and it should be the prayer of every Christian during this holy time that the loving Saviour of men may find a more general welcome in home, State and church, and that his salutary presence and blessed influence may be permitted to redeem modern society and institutions from their admitted sins.

RECENT DEATHS.

Mrs. Susan Gorman, widow of the late Edward Gorman, died Monday afternoon at her home, 730 Zane street, leaving four daughters and a son to mourn her loss. She had been a patient sufferer from a complication of diseases that caused her death. The funeral was held Wednesday morning from St. Louis Bertrand's church.

Mrs. Magdalena Buecker, wife of Patrolman Charles Buecker, died Tuesday night at her home, 944 Mary street. Several brothers and sisters survive, and to them and the bereaved husband is extended the sympathy of many friends. The funeral services were held Friday morning at St. Vincent de Paul's church and were largely attended.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary Hines, widow of the late John Hines, was held Monday morning from St. Michael's church, attended by many of her old friends. For two years she was a sufferer from asthma, and the end was not unexpected. Mrs. Hines resided at 827 Franklin street, and is survived by one son, John Hines, and two daughters, Misses Catherine and Julia Hines.

Friends and relatives were deeply grieved when they learned of the death of Dr. Clarence E. Frey, which occurred Sunday night at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Frey, Thirty-eighth and Market streets. The deceased was thirty-two years old and a member of St. Columba's church, from where the funeral was held Wednesday morning. Rev. Father John Kalaher, the pastor, officiating at the solemn mass of requiem.

Funeral services over the remains of Mrs. Ellen Pryor, for years a highly esteemed resident of this city, were held Monday at St. Bridget's church. Mrs. Pryor died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Emil Von Siebenthal, 1602 Lucia avenue, following an illness of pneumonia. Mrs. Pryor was best known in St. William's parish, where she was ever ready to assist her neighbors in sickness and distress. Two daughters and a son survive her.

CHALLENGED.

Religious Strife Is Raised Over
President Wilson's Policy.

Methodist's Assertion That Catholics Are Favored Stirs Priest.

Hint That Action Is Delayed
Because of Church Called Contemptible.

CAN'T PROVE HIS ASSERTION

In a preachers' conference at Asbury Park on Tuesday of last week the Rev. Dr. James William Marshall, Superintendent of the New Brunswick district of the Methodist Episcopal church, said that President Wilson has picked Roman Catholics for 80 per cent. of the offices he has filled. He also said that the President was "tardy in taking action in Mexico because Mexico is a Catholic country."

On Sunday the Rev. Thomas A. Roche, rector of the Catholic church of the Holy Spirit at Asbury Park, challenged Dr. Marshall to prove his assertions, which, he says, are misleading and false.

"I challenge Dr. Marshall," said Father Roche, "to prove that even 10 per cent. of the President's appointments have been Roman Catholics. Dr. Marshall's insinuation as to the Mexican policy of the United States is mean and contemptible and unworthy of an honorable man. I hope that Dr. Marshall's attempt to stir up religious strife in this vicinity will be a failure."

"The Reverend Doctor seems to know as much about our history as he does about current events, for he says that Catholics holding public office are a menace. I will enlighten him about Catholics and their doings."

Father Roche then reminded Dr. Marshall that Roman Catholics signed the Declaration of Independence, were praised by Washington for their bravery and loyalty in the Continental army, and died by the tens of thousands in the civil war.

"Has Dr. Marshall," he asked, "ever heard of the gallant Jack Barry, the father of the American navy; of Gen. Shields of the last Mexican war; of the Irish Brigade at Gettysburg? All these brave men were Catholics, and I wonder if Dr. Marshall will say they were a menace and unfit to hold public office. At present there are hundreds of Catholic officers and thousands of Catholic men in the army and navy ready to begin war if necessary, and does Dr. Marshall call them a menace and unfit to hold public office? I think Dr. Marshall would hand over the offices to that crowd which shouts and waves the flag in times of peace and when war comes hands it over to the other fellows."

"Can Dr. Marshall prove that the Catholics of Asbury Park are not law abiding, respectful of authority, honest, good friends and kind neighbors? He knows these virtues are taught them by their church and that the Roman Catholic church is the most peaceful factor for good that exists."

"I do not know President Wilson's policy toward Mexico, and I would be foolish to criticize it as Dr. Marshall has done. Like the vast majority of our citizens, I believe that the President possesses rare wisdom and prudence, and with them I believe he will settle the Mexican problem to the satisfaction of the American people."

TRINITY COUNCIL.

At the annual election of officers of Trinity Council, Y. M. C. A., held Monday night, one of the strongest administrations in the history of the council was chosen, headed by James R. Kelly as President. Under the leadership of President Kelly the boys believe they will be enabled to erect the much needed addition to the club house in accordance with the original plans, as it was during his first term as President that the present structure was built. The election of Attorney Benedict Elder as Vice President was equally as popular and assures the members that the President's chair will always be occupied by a man who is thoroughly capable. Frank H. Brighmans' choice for Second Vice President was a testimonial and recognition of his long and faithful service as a member of Trinity. In appreciation of the honor the new Vice President sprang quite a surprise on the members when he passed around a box of "Daddy's Havanas," a cigar of his own make, which were much enjoyed. This kindly act was by no means an solicitation of office, however, as it was not done until after he had been elected. The Rev. Father J. A. O'Grady, the long-time Chaplain of Trinity Council and pastor of St. Aloysius church, surprised the meeting by being on hand and opening the election with a forceful address on the necessity of good government in fraternity as well as city, State and national life, pointing out that if good officers were elected, as in the past, Trinity Council would be bound to succeed. Father O'Grady was again selected for Chaplain by acclamation. He said he did not come to the meeting for the purpose of again being made Chaplain, whereupon President Vic Ecker assured him that whether he had been present or not, the choice would have been made with the same enthusiasm and unanimity. Following are the other officers who will serve Trinity Council during the next year:

Recording Secretary—Paul E. Bowling.
Corresponding Secretary—John Timmel.
Financial Secretary—Joseph M. Mayer.
Treasurer—E. G. Ellert.
Marshal—George Ossie Garrity.
Inside Sentinel—Edward Schraeder.
Outside Sentinel—Tom Murphy.
Collector—Edward Kelly.
Executive Committee—Dan J. Hennessy, C. Edward Mueller, Alex. Kaiser, Dave O'Connell, V. K. Ecker.

RIORDAN—THOMAS.

The marriage of Miss Mary Wood Riordan to Dr. William Oscar Thomas, of Savannah, Tenn., was solemnized Tuesday at the home of the bride at Cammer, Hart county. The Rev. Thomas J. Hayes, of Bowling Green, officiating as happy couple. The ring ceremony was witnessed by a large number of friends of the bride and groom. The house was beautifully decorated for the occasion. Just before the entrance of the bridal party Mrs. E. A. Flanders sang "Melody of Love," accompanied by Miss Elizabeth Riordan on the piano. The bridal party entered to Mendelssohn's wedding march. Miss Ada Russell, the bridesmaid, was attended by Claude Grady. Next came the maid of honor, Miss Lillie Riordan. The bride entered alone and was met by the groom, who had entered from a rear door. Dr. and Mrs. Thomas left for a short trip, after which they will reside in Savannah, Tenn.

UNION PRINTERS' HOME.

The Union Printers' Home, located at Colorado Springs, is the only institution of its kind in the world, being established by the International Typographical Union for the benefit of aged and infirm members of the union, and was erected in 1892 at a cost of $70,000, every cent being paid upon completion and a surplus of $13,000 in bank to the credit of the fund. With the exception of $10,000 donated by George W. Childs and Anthony J. Drexel, this building was erected by the efforts of the union printers of America. A hospital annex costing $40,000 was erected at a later date, and last year a tuberculosis pavilion costing $20,000 and accommodating thirty-two patients was added. The property is now valued at $1,000,000 by conservative real estate men, and the Typographical Union in the past nineteen years has expended in building and maintaining the home over $1,250,000. The union printers through a small monthly contribution pay the bill, and it is their boast that their members, when overtaken by age and adversity, do not become public charges, but have a home to go to, a home which they paid for in the days of their earning power, and are not living on charity.

VISITED THEIR DAUGHTER.

Mr. and Mrs. George J. Butler, of Portland avenue, spent a delightful Thanksgiving at St. Catherine of Sienna Academy at Springfield, where they visited their daughter, Miss Anna Cecilia Butler, who entered the novitiate of the Dominican Sisterhood last September. Miss Butler was one of the most exemplary young ladies in the West End and her presence is missed by her wide circle of friends. She will make her first vows and receive the Dominican habit next March. In religion she will be known as Sister Dorothea.

ASQUITH

Will Not Give in to Leaders
Who Want to Cast Ballot.

Unionist Appeal For Early Election Said to Be Only a Sham.

Government in a Position to Carry Through Entire Programme.

UNIONISTS CHANCES ARE SLIM

The Irish home rule political situation has undergone no change, and there is not likely to be any, for it can not be imagined that Asquith could ever be mean enough to give in to the clamor of the Unionists for another general election, cables Philip Everett. There is of course not the slightest reason why he should do so, with the Government in a position of carrying through its entire political programme without the possibility of a hitch, but if he did, and dissolved Parliament as soon as Lloyd George's new land reform has been properly put before and grasped by the masses of the people, no pen would be able to describe the consternation that would arise within the Unionist party, which has absolutely nothing to place before the people in the way of a programme, except resistance to home rule, which is rather a negative one.

The results of such an election would not matter much to the Unionists. If they were defeated they would have to submit to home rule, and if they won their position would be even worse, for their first act would naturally be to drop the home rule bill entirely, and in that case they would themselves have shown the Irish Nationalists the very thing to do—prepare to resist the Government by armed force. Unionists have had a taste before of trying to rule Ireland when that island is in a state of rebellion, and they did not enjoy it much, and this time the rebellion would be open instead of veiled. Nobody knows better than the Unionist leaders, however, that their chances of getting a majority are very slim until the home rule bill has become law and the number of Irish representatives at Westminster greatly reduced, and their continual cry for a general election is nothing but a sham, which is probably the reason why they are very careful not to promise to give up their opposition to home rule in case the voters should return a majority of radical members.

There is no doubt in the minds of the members of the Government or of anyone else that the losses of radical votes at recent by-elections were due to the fact that while Larkin, who tried to help the workmen of Dublin to better their conditions, was arrested for sedition and sent to prison, Sir Edward Carson, who has uttered much worse threats, has never been touched. Meeting a member of the Government at the National Liberal Club the other night, he asked the reason why no attempt had ever been made to punish King Carson and received the following explanation:

"Larkin was sent to prison for inciting the populace to rebel against existing authority, while Sir Carson has only told his followers to make revolution. If the home rule bill becomes a law, and there is no law which prohibits any man or any number of men threatening or organizing opposition to a nonexisting order of things. But the moment the home rule bill becomes law the position of Sir Edward Carson, F. C. Smith, Capt. Craig and others is automatically changed. A continuance of their campaign would become high treason and each of them would be liable to the death penalty."

That is the view the law officers of the Crown are obliged to take when advising the Government in the present crisis, and when Sir Edward arouses a storm of applause from Ulster covenanted and Tory galleries in England by challenging the Government to prosecute him, he knows very well what answer he has up his sleeve. So far he has done nothing but ask his followers to remain faithful to the existing Government, a most loyal act in the eyes of the law, which must necessarily deal with fact and not with contingencies. Who will now deny that Sir Carson is a hero?

FATHER YORK WILL BUILD.

Rev. Father Thomas York, pastor of St. Paul's church, will soon begin the erection of one of the most unique churches in the diocese, to take the place of the edifice recently destroyed by fire. The church will be 50x116 feet, of mixed Gothic and Grecian architecture and built of stone and brick. The tower will be sixteen feet at the base and fifty feet high, and therein will be located the baptistry, with a waiting room on the second floor for the choir. It will be clear story to the roof, the sanctuary being 50x30 feet, including the baptistry. A grand arch will separate the sanctuary from the church, which will have a larger seating capacity than the old church. Father York feels greatly encouraged and is daily receiving promises of assistance. Thomas J. Nolan is the architect for the new St. Paul's.

MALONEY ELECTED.

Nearly all the members of Division 3, A. O. H., were present at the meeting on Monday night to elect the officers who were to serve for the year 1914. The result of the election was as follows:

President—John M. Maloney. Vice President—Matt J. O'Brien. Recording Secretary—John P. Price.

Financial Secretary—John J. Hession, Jr.

Treasurer—D. J. Dougherty. Sergeant-at-Arms—Martin J. Kallagher.

Sentinel—Thomas Noon. Standing Committee—William Lawler, Chairman; Charles Boyle, Martin Sheehan, P. J. Neilligan, David Murphy.

A committee composed of John M. Maloney, D. J. Dougherty, John J. Hession, Jr., and John P. Price, is now getting together information and data for the history of Division 3, and they expect to complete their work by the first of next week.

Sergeant Maloney, who heads the degree team, is getting his men in shape for an initiation to be held the first of the year. The announcement that none of the members were on the sick list caused expressions of good feeling, which was increased by the remarks of Magistrate P. T. Sullivan. President-elect Maloney, Matt O'Brien, John G. Hession, John Karmann and Thomas Kennedy, who predict that the coming year will be the best in the history of the division. The installation ceremonies will take place at the first meeting in January, and will be made the occasion for a general reunion of the members.

DEATH WAS SUDDEN.

There was sincere and widespread sorrow when it was known that Mrs. Pauline Kaltenbacher, widow of Louis Kaltenbacher and mother of Robert Kaltenbacher, Deputy Sheriff of Jefferson county, and Mrs. Al M. Emler, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Amelia Walther, 1938 Deerwood avenue, last Tuesday night. Her death was sudden and the immediate cause thought to be heart disease, but a fall down a flight of stairs some weeks ago is thought to have hastened her end, notwithstanding that it was believed she had recovered completely from the shock. Mrs. Kaltenbacher was seventy-eight years old. She was a native of Germany, but had lived in Kentucky the greater part of her life. Besides Robert Kaltenbacher, Mrs. Emler and Mrs. Walther, she is survived by the following children: Edward, Charles and Louis Kaltenbacher, Jr., and Mrs. Ida Strohmeier, all of whom, with the exception of Charles, live in Louisville. The latter resides in Kansas City. The funeral services were held Friday morning from the Church of St. Francis on the Bardstown road.

ST. PATRICK'S.

Invitations are being sent out for what should prove a large and happy holiday gathering of the people and friends of St. Patrick's church. It will be the year's end social festivities of the Men's Club of 29 and 30. Each afternoon and evening a handsome prize will be awarded the holder of a lucky complimentary ticket. The men will serve supper from 5 to 8 o'clock each evening, and for the mirth-provoking and night entertainments there will be euchre, lotto and other amusements.

A. O. H. HISTORY.

At a called meeting of the County Board, A. O. H., and some of the veteran members Sunday afternoon in Bertrand Hall, State President P. J. Welsh explained that the national officers and directors are preparing a history of the A. O. H. in the United States, and Kentucky is expected to have its part ready for press not later than January 1. The different division Secretaries were delegated to consult former officers, charter members and records of their respective divisions and furnish same to John J. Barry, of the Kentucky Irish American, who is compiling them with a synopsis of the county and State boards. The organization of the A. O. H. in Jefferson county dates back as far as 1870, and a great part of this data and history will necessarily have to come from the men who have grown gray in the ranks of Hibernianism. Their stories and descriptions of the order's early history should naturally make interesting reading at this late date.

MACKIN COUNCIL.

Mackin Council took another forward step at a largely attended meeting Monday night, when it was voted to establish regular hours for the Secretary, who will hereafter be found at the club house every afternoon and night. This will greatly facilitate the business of his office with the members, who now number nearly 600. Much interest was taken in the election of officers, which resulted as follows:

President—George J. Thornton. First Vice President—John Kenney.

Second Vice President—Fred Schuler.

Recording Secretary—John R. Barry.

Financial Secretary—Will Cassin.

Treasurer—Sebastian Hubbuch.

Marshal—Joe Keane.

Inside Sentinel—William Schott.

Outside Sentinel—F. E. Grater.

Executive Committee—Frank Adams, Charles Ralby, William Link.

A number of additional applications for membership were acted upon, and now Mackin is assured a good class for the joint initiation to be held in New Albany next month. The installation arrangements have not yet been completed, but they will be announced Monday night.

ANOTHER FOR WILHITE.

Everybody in Louisville was pleased Tuesday when announcement was made that Mayor Buschmeyer had reappointed City Comptroller Samuel Wilhite for another term. The Board of Aldermen confirmed the appointment and approved the bond. Comptroller Wilhite had served with marked distinction under six city administrations and his reappointment was not unexpected. His ability has been repeatedly recognized by the National Association of Comptrollers and Accounting Officers, composed of comptrollers and accounting officers of all the principal cities of the United States. He is now serving his second term as President of that organization.

FORTY HOURS.

Forty Hours' devotions will next be held in this city at St. Mary's church, Eighth and Grayson, beginning with the high mass tomorrow morning and continuing until Tuesday. The beautiful services will be conducted by the pastor, Rev. Father Westermann, who will be assisted by a number of visiting priests. Great preparations are always made for these devotions at St. Mary's, and therefore people from all sections of the city will attend. This will give an excellent opportunity for making the jubilee, which ends Monday.

GAYETY THEATER.

The Gayety Theater's offering for next week will prove one of the season's best attractions, being none other than George Sidney and Carrie Webber, heading a number of high class comedians in the mirth-provoking production, "Busy Izzy." The company includes a chorus of forty pretty girls, who do some artistic formations and sing in twenty catchy musical numbers. This season's programme will present many new and pleasing features.

BEGINS NEW DUTIES.

Miss May Brennan, daughter of Mrs. Hannah Brennan, 2726 West Chestnut street, on Tuesday entered upon her new duties as clerk in the Health Department, succeeding Mrs. Irene Hardin, whose resignation had been asked by the Board of Public Safety. Miss Brennan is an experienced clerk and stenographer and is certain to give satisfaction in her new position.

INDORSED OLD OFFICERS.

Division 1, A. O. H., met Tuesday night at Falls City Hall with a good attendance of members. This was largely due to the annual election and the determination to continue in office those who had served so well the past year. General regret was expressed on all sides when Vice President Daniel McCarthy announced his inability to serve another year, otherwise the officers being unchanged. The meeting was opened by President Tarry and the routine business quickly dispatched. Four members, Thomas Lawler, Michael Osborne, James Gilmore and George English, were reported on the sick list. Delegates to the County Board reported the proceedings of that body, and old members were urged to give all information possible to John J. Barry, who will supervise the compilation of the history of the Ancient Order in Louisville. Following the addresses of Daniel McCarthy, Martin Cusick, Mark Ryan, James Barry, Thomas Keenan and David O'Connell the election took place with the following result:

President—Thomas Tarry. Vice President—Henry McDermott.

Recording Secretary—Walter Cusick.

Financial Secretary—Joseph Farrell.

Treasurer—Thomas Keenan, Sr.

Sergeant-at-Arms—Tim Lyons.

Standing Committee—Martin Cusick, James Barry, David O'Connell, William M. Higgins, William Murphy.

MOURN HER DEATH.

After having reached the advanced age of eighty years, most of which were passed in Louisville, Mrs. Josephine Portman was called to her eternal rest Monday night, following heart trouble which developed about a year ago. Mrs. Portman was the widow of the late Peter Portman and resided at 3431 Western parkway. She was born in Zurich, Switzerland, and came to this country while a young girl. Prior to her marriage she was Miss Josephine Kaiser. Until her health failed she was active in church work and to the poor she was ever a generous friend. Mrs. Portman is survived by five sons and three daughters. They are Capt. Frank Portman, of the Louisville police force; Louis and Leo Portman, both of this city; William Portman, of New York City, and Max Portman, of Denver; Mrs. Simeon Darr, of Oak, Ala., and Miss Josephine Portman, of this city, and Sister Mercedes, of the Sisters of Nazareth, Somerset, Ky. The funeral services were held Thursday morning from the Church of Our Lady, the Rev. Father Coniff being the celebrant of the solemn mass of requiem. Father Coniff paid glowing tribute to the virtue of the dead, recalling her steadfastness in her faith, her charity and her generosity.

ENJOYED SOCIAL SESSION.

The Columbia Athletic Club scored another success Tuesday night and the members spent a most enjoyable evening. First there was a cabaret show and smoker with some really amusing "stunts," after which there was a feast that would satisfy the most exacting taste. Organized about eight years ago, the Columbia boys are rapidly paying for the splendid club house they now occupy on East St. Catherine street. For the rest of the winter season there promises to be much activity and always "something doing."

HONEST JIM DUDDY.

By an agreed order in Judge Quarles' court Monday morning James Duddy, who was declared elected Constable in the Eighth Magisterial district, surrendered his certificate, saying he had no desire to hold an office about which there was any question. Had Duddy fought the case the office would doubtless been his, but victory and serving with the Bull Moose Magistrate were not worth the cost and trouble. Such Democrats will receive their deserved recognition.
